

Bala Devi Chandrashekhar presents Sangam Festival on Dec 30

Chennai, Dec 26:

Sangam Festival, Established and championed by Bharatanatyam exponent and scholar Bala Devi Chandrashekhar, an organization committed to the preservation, promotion, and showcasing of exceptional Indian classical artists and South Asian arts, to host a comprehensive three-part festival on Tuesday, December 30th, 2025, at Kartik Fine Arts, Mylapore, Chennai.

The latest edition of the Sangam Festival presents a curated showcase of India's classical dance traditions, blending ensemble works, contemporary interpretations, and mythological narratives. Performances include Ananta Nartana by Aayam Institute of Performing Arts, Vichitra Pradarshini by Padma Shri Chitra Visweswaran and Sukanya Ravindhar, and Meenakshi by Tejas Nrithyanjali, highlighting both innovation and tradition within classical dance.

Sharing her inspiration, Bharatanatyam exponent Bala Devi Chandrashekhar said the festival aims to create a confluence of Indian classical music and dance from across regions, while fostering global artistic collaboration. She added that Sangam Festival also focuses on education through performances, workshops, mentoring, and digital resources, with the goal of preserving and promoting authentic Indian and South Asian performing arts for contemporary and academic audiences. In addition to her philanthropic endeavours, Bala Devi actively contributes to education, language preservation, and cultural heritage initiatives.
